PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER 17 DECEMBER 1975

dush is Unfit for the CI

By SAUL FRIEDMAN Inquirer Washington Rureau

ASHINGTON — The nomination ? of George Bush to head the CIA, have every intention of serving at came in for strong criticism yesterday in hearings before the Senate Armed Services Committee with Sen. Frank Church (D., Idaho), saying Bush "is not the right man for this particular job.".

Although Bush seemed likely to win committee approval, two committee Democrats, John Culver of Iowa and Patrick Leahy of Vermont, announced that they would vote against 18 8.8.1.3 him.

A third committee Democratic Henry Jackson of Washington, who is running for his party's presidential come by rruny:
nomination, said that President Ford, Church, the chairman of the Senate ground and a beckoning political further and of the CIA, should re-Select committee on Intelligence, appropriate the good of the CIA, should re-Select committee on Intelligence, appropriate the control of the city. Church said. "At the very should pledge to serve for at least before the committee a year.

Bush said, "I would serve at the pleasure of the President, although I lleast a year."

Culver, in announcing his opresition, said, "The intelligence community now requires leadership of transcendent qualities if disinterestedness and the power to evoke publication Committee Chairman John C. Stennis (D.; Miss.), who indicated support of Bush, may call for a vote on the nonimation as early as today? and a vote by the full Senate could:

move Bush from the list of possible peared only as a witness yesterday in vice-presidential candidates and Bush the second and final day of hearings

He argued that Bush, because he once headed the Republican National Committee and because he now refused to withdraw his name from vice-presidential, speculation, "has not demonstrated his independence," and was not the man "to begin the restoration" of public confidence in the CIA:

ness and the power to evoke public. He said the CIA was supposed to confidence. The next director must be nonpolitical, nonpartisan and indebe a builder, not a curator. investigations because it had not been those things.

Here we stand, in the close wake of Watergate, an obefore us as the candidate for director is a man with a strong partisan political background and a beckoning political fuleast, this committee should insist that the nominee disavow any place; on the 1976 presidential ticket."

Sen. John Tower (R., Tex.), vice chairman of Church's committee. told Church, "A committee has been' formed for your presidential camvestigation of the CIA merely an act of politics?"

Church said he would step down as committee chairman if he formally? announced his candidacy for Preside dent. He added that the presidency? was a partisan office, while the directorship of the CIA was not.

STAT